Investment Summary - FTM C Class

The emphasis of the Class C Shares is on risk aversion with 100% of the portfolio held in investments where the capital is secured against medical accounts receivables. The Class C Shares are based on the same investment strategy as Class A which has achieved an annualized return of 8.84% and 70 consecutive positive months. Class C Shares receive a fixed interest return and do not share further in the risk and reward generated by the receivables companies

The difference between Class A and Class C Shares is that, in Class C, 100% of funds received are used to purchase medical accounts receivables and as such there is no cash component drag and the entire amount invested generates a return

FTM Class C is expected to generate annualized returns up to 30% better than that of the annualized return of Class A Shares However, to achieve this it is necessary to commit to a Holding Period of a minimum of two (2) years.
